Music plays a powerful role in the lives of young children. Through music, they can come to better understand themselves and their feelings, learn to decipher patterns and solve problems and discover the world around them in rich, complex ways.

The background features teal-colored musical staves with notes and red abstract shapes. The staves are positioned in the top-left and bottom-right corners, curving across the frame. The red shapes include a large semi-circle in the top-right, a smaller semi-circle in the bottom-left, and a small oval in the bottom-left.

Most importantly, sharing music experiences with the people they love makes very young children feel cherished and important.
